

What's driving the future of messaging in the United States?

Today's consumers expect speed, simplicity, and convenience when communicating with a business.

Here's how new messaging channels meet their demands – and deliver on business goals.

Top 3 priorities for businesses in the United States in 2021<sup>1</sup>

66%

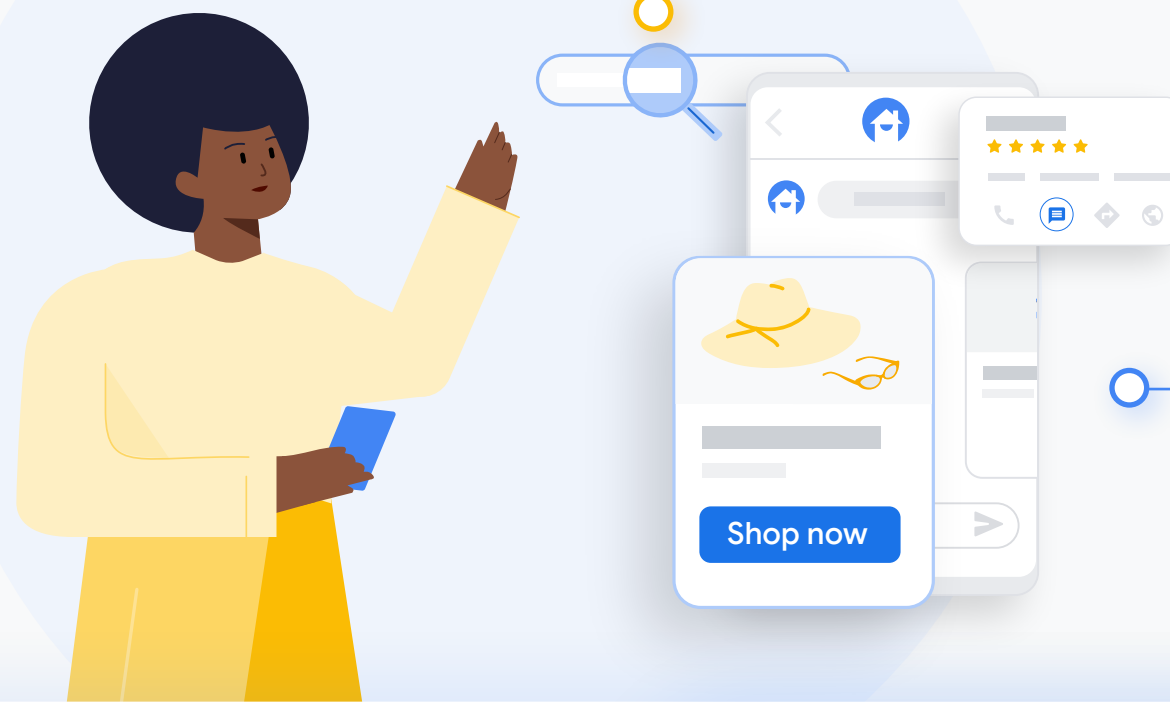

Finding new customers

66%

Serving customer needs

58%

Building brand awareness

The usual channels aren't up to the task

5 in 10 consumers are frustrated at not having their questions answered, and 4 in 10 at being stuck on hold for too long.

6 in 10 businesses struggle with their employees not being able to manage the volume of inquiries, and the time it takes for employees to respond to communications.

Brands and consumers are looking to messaging solutions for help

Top pain points businesses believe will be addressed by messaging:

4 in 10

businesses say messaging will help reduce customer wait times

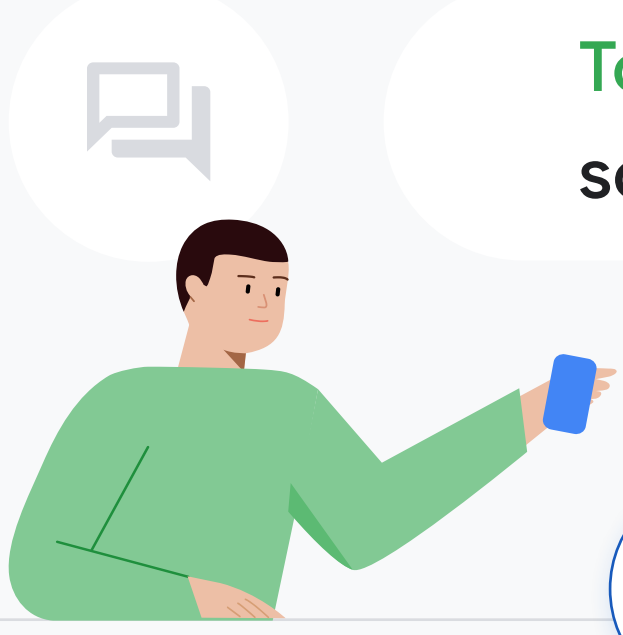

37%

say it will help employees manage a high volume of inquiries

1/3

say it will help overcome a lack of personalized communication with customers

Top messaging benefits sought by consumers:

Access to a live agent when needed

Not having to repeat information

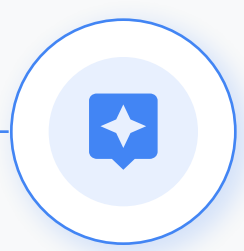

Visual shopping

Replying on their schedule

Peace of mind that conversations are secure

Businesses want to connect with customers in the moments that count

5.5+ billion

Google searches worldwide every day<sup>2</sup>

4 in 10 enterprise businesses want their messaging solutions to be:

- Integrated where customers are searching for products / services
- Easy to use
- Able to collect and analyze customer feedback data

Consumers in the United States overwhelmingly use Google Search to find business contact information when they want to:

Google's Business Messages helps brands deliver in-moment messaging

Business Messages is a messaging platform that's accessible right where your customers are – from Google Search and Google Maps, to any brand-owned channel.

2 in 3

businesses are 'extremely' or 'very' interested in Google's Business Messages.

Find out how Google's Business Messages supports your customers in their moment of need with the best of automated digital and live agents.

Learn more at businessmessages.google

<sup>1</sup> NRG survey of 1,000 consumers and 300 businesses in the U.S., commissioned by Google, March 2021
<sup>2</sup> Internet Live Stats, 2021